Screening of the Documentary Film Essay & Discussion

Les berceuses

ABSTRACT

Since 2011, Eric Tellitocci has been filming parents from other countries living in France who sing lullabies in their 'natural' language to their babies. "Les berceuses" explores the relationship between babies and parents through singing, exchanging glances and carrying, all of which are common to us whatever our country of origin. The film invites dialogue with a wide range of audiences and anyone interested in multilingualism and the complexities of raising children in multilingual, socially complex contexts.
