

Mia Dzepina
Curriculum Vitae
March 2026

MAILING ADDRESS

University of Luxembourg
Department of Behavioural and Cognitive Sciences
11, Porte des Sciences
L-4366 Esch-sur-Alzette
Luxembourg

mia.dzepina@uni.lu

CURRENT POSITION

PhD Researcher, Political Science, University of Luxembourg, Luxembourg, February 2025 –.

EDUCATION

M.Sc. European Governance, University of Luxembourg, Luxembourg, 2020 – 2022.

M.A. English Literature and History, University of Edinburgh, Scotland, 2016 – 2020.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Human Resources Trainee, European Public Prosecutors Office, Luxembourg,
September 2024 – February 2025

Human Resources Trainee, Croatian Intellectual Property Office, Croatia,
November 2023 – May 2024

Corporate Governance Trainee, European Union Intellectual Property Office,
Spain, September 2022 – November 2023

Sales Development Representative, Yollty, Luxembourg, January 2022 – May 2022

Student Assistant Editor, University of Luxembourg, Luxembourg, March 2021 –
December 2021

CONFERENCES AND WORKSHOPS

Career Events – Life in Academia, EUIPO, Alicante, Spain, 2025

RESEARCH PROJECT

I examine the relationship between economic insecurity and the propensity to vote for populist parties, particularly during periods of exogenous shocks such as the COVID-19 pandemic. My project employs a comparative, mixed-methods approach to assess how crisis-induced economic precarity shapes electoral behavior. Central to the analysis is the mediating role of institutional buffers, specifically healthcare access and welfare provisions.